INTRODUCTION

On April 25, 1917, George S. Wallace, Major Judge Advocate General, O. R. C., of Huntington, was appointed by Governor John J. Cornwell as head of the newly formed Department of Military Census and Enrollment, to take charge of the execution of the selective service act for the State of West Virginia. It was then definitely known that this act would become a law and preliminary preparations were immediately gotten under way, so that on May 19, 1917, the day the selective service act became a law, the State was in readiness. Under the plans adopted, the registrars of the last general election were appointed wherever possible to serve in connection with the registration of all men of military age and 3,630 registrars were used in this manner, two to every precinct in the State, with a few exceptions, where local conditions demanded more than two. Of these 3,423 gave their service voluntarily. The registration was decentralized under the direct supervision of registration boards, consisting of the sheriff, the county clerk and health officer and two citizen members in the counties and the mayor and five citizen members in cities of over thirty thousand. The registrars were appointed, sworn, furnished with supplies and ready for registration by the evening of May 26th.

The total registration of the state in the Class of June 5, 1917, including late registrants, was 126,505. On June 26th, the registration boards completed their work and turned over their registration cards and other records to the newly appointed Draft Boards.

On September 26, 1917, Major George S. Wallace was succeeded by Captain Breckinridge Jones as Chief of the Department of Military Census and Enrollment. Captain Jones was in charge of the administration of the draft until June 7, 1918, when he was succeeded by Captain Fleming N. Alderson, of Richwood, W. Va., as Chief of the Department.

The registration of June 5, 1918, is known as the second registration. As the selective service system had been in operation nearly a year, the work of the registration was completed with dispatch. The registration was accomplished by means of registrars at the customary polling places under the direction of the Local Board having jurisdiction of the area wherein the person was registered.

On August 13, 1918, President Wilson issued a proclamation calling upon all male persons who had since the 5th day of June, 1918, attained their twenty-first birthday to register August 24, 1918. This registration was accomplished in a manner similar to the registration of June 5th. Those who registered August 24, 1918, were considered late registrants of June 5, 1918, and for that reason they were considered registrants of the second registration.

The total registration of the State in the second registration, including late registrants, was 14,179.

By this time all the men of the first registration qualified for general military service had either been called or sent to camp, and the boys of the second registration were quickly forwarded to meet the urgent demands upon the State.

On August 31, 1918, President Wilson, by proclamation, appointed September 12, 1918, as a day of registration for all male persons in the United States between the ages of 18 and 46, who had not previously registered or were otherwise exempt.

These were, perhaps, the most trying days to local and district boards and others connected with the draft, of any period during the war. The demand for men at the front created a scarcity of industrial and agricultural workers, and the proper classification of registrants was a problem requiring all the energy and wisdom at the disposal of the highly competent men who were members of the local and district boards. The successful result of the manner in which this problem was solved, is something of which every West Virginian should feel proud.

The registration of September 12, 1918, following close upon the exhausting labor of the summer, rendered almost superhuman efforts necessary to meet the occasion. All the local, district, medical and legal advisory boards, and others connected with the draft, responded and the work connected with the largest registration during the war was begun, as the matter of registration is merely a beginning.

The total registration of the State in the Class of September 12, 1918, was 182,699.
